Non-specific social media threat to schools

A non-specific threat to schools is circulating on social media across the state and is being reposted on various platforms. Area law enforcement agencies are aware and monitoring the situation, and we have been advised that the threat is being spread to cause distress. It is not considered a credible threat to any individuals or schools in our community, as it did not originate within, nor is it directed to, Binghamton-area schools. As always, we encourage you to help us promote a safe school community by reporting any and all threats to school administrators and law enforcement.
